2/25	Intake with [REDACTED]	January 30 th , 11pm doing rounds with [REDACTED] another female RA. Strong smell of marijuana and loud noise coming from room so it was hard to know how many people were there, so she called another RA to wait outside the door. While waiting outside, person's girlfriend came out. About five minutes before other RA was there. Knocked 3 or 4 times. Other suitemate opened the door. RAs asked that suitemate to go through the bathroom and ask the other suitemates to open the door. [REDACTED] reports that then [REDACTED] opened the door completely naked and closed the door behind him. The RAs said they knocked because of strong smell of marijuana and wanted to talk to him about this, but first wanted him to put pants on. They had to ask him 3-4 times to put pants on. He kept saying they were not smoking. He was covering his private parts with one hand, but it didn't cover much and seemed to have been an afterthought. He went inside and came back out in shorts. Then the RAs went into the room and didn't smell much marijuana anymore and didn't see paraphernalia. [REDACTED] girlfriend was lying in a bed. The RAs said thank you and left.

The weekend of Valentine's Day, [REDACTED] had gone to the [REDACTED] to check on an event there. She was notified by an RA that emergency vehicles were trying to assess the area. A resident had a cut toe and needed medical attention. They said all residents involved appeared to be under the influence of alcohol. Campus Police suggested student misconduct handle. [REDACTED] called her RD and duty partner. University Police told [REDACTED] that the injured student was [REDACTED].

As soon as the paramedics left, police left and [REDACTED] duty partner wasn't there yet. Residents started to disperse. [REDACTED] saw [REDACTED] being escorted up the stairs by his girlfriend. He was two steps above [REDACTED]. When he saw [REDACTED] and registered who she was, [REDACTED] reports that he became very aggressive and asked "Why, what's going on?" She told him she was informed by campus police that alcohol was involved. He started shaking his finger at [REDACTED] and yelling "you can't use the information I told police." [REDACTED] reports that he was very aggressive and intimidating. She took a step back. Her duty partner, [REDACTED], had just arrived. [REDACTED] girlfriend was trying to push him up the stairs and was apologizing to the RAs. [REDACTED] appeared intoxicated and [REDACTED] was really shaken. She felt it wouldn't have happened except that it was her and she was alone, and that it could have been a lot worse if [REDACTED] had not arrived. She and [REDACTED] informed the RD, and two other residents observed it.

Campus Police are supposed to wait until there are at least two people before they leave.

A no contact order is in place between [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] and he has until tonight to be out of the dorm because he's being evicted. [REDACTED] has not seen [REDACTED] since and another RA covered that area on her duty night.

[REDACTED] does not want to be around him or have to worry about him. She wants to not feel helpless in a situation like that. She will talk to Michael about the second incident. The aggression in the second incident is what brought the first incident into context for her. She heard from others that he planned to come out naked and thought it would be funny, and she understands he disagrees. [REDACTED] feels discriminated against and doesn't think it would have happened if it were two male RAs. She believes the nudity was for the purpose of intimidating her and the other RA. She is much more uncomfortable after the second incident.

Laura Eckert will talk with John Purdie re: police protocol and to make sure police don't again hand something over without backup RAs present. She will also call Michael Sledge.
